

David Alejandro Veintimilla Yánez

Environmental Management and Conservation Engineer.

Specialist in Biodiversity and CITES Focal Point in the Ministry of the Environment, Water and Ecological Transition of Ecuador.

Environmental Management and Conservation Engineer with more than 10 years of experience in the field of Sustainable Development and Environment. Part of his work has been carried out in the public and private sectors, especially in the development of policies and strategies for the conservation and sustainable use of biodiversity, in addition to participating in the process of design, development and execution of projects linked to protected areas, wildlife conservation, sustainable use of biodiversity and climate change, under international cooperation funds such as GEF, GCF, KfW and EUROCLIMA+, as well as technical assistance from GIZ, USAID, ACTO, UNODC and CITES. He currently works as a Biodiversity Specialist and CITES Focal Point in the Ministry of the Environment, Water and Ecological Transition of Ecuador.